2010 CSA

This could be your farmer. (Shaun)

These could be your veggies. (yum)

What is CSA?

Community Supported Agriculture is a way for eaters to connect with their farmers and the land from which their food originates. At the beginning of a growing season, members pay for a share of the coming harvest, and in return receive a weekly delivery of delicious, local, seasonal produce.

What is Rise Up Farm?

Rise Up Farm is a diversified organic fruit and vegetable farm on the north side of Elkhart, IN. We love food. Good food. And good food to us is food that is produced using sustainable, ecological techniques. You literally are what you eat, and we intend to eat very well.

What should I expect?

Our CSA will run for 20 weeks from the beggining of June through mid-October. Throughout that period you will receive a weekly "box" of seasonal veggies from the farm delivered to one of our drop-off points. We will be growing a wide array of crops stapled by seasonal favorites, along with a smattering of herbs, fruits, and some more obscure vegetable varieties. Members are encouraged to be a part of the farm community and learn about their food through farm visits, events and festivals hosted at the farm, and a work-share option. Call or email any time for more information.
